

INTERESTED IN ADDING COMMUNITY WORK TO YOUR CLASS CURRICULUM?

Attend the Faculty Community Engagement Workshop!

Wednesday, October 14
4:00 to 5:30 p.m.
Philbrick 120, Student Center

- ❖ Jessica Hernandez, Director of the CCSU Office of Community Engagement, will showcase resources, including helpful links for faculty
- ❖ Professors that have organized successful community engagement projects for their classes will provide advice on:
  - Finding a partner
  - Raising funds and handling logistics
  - Teaming with other classes and departments
- ❖ Participate in an activity that will help you conceptualize community engagement initiatives relevant to your subject area
- ❖ Meet a New Britain community partner interested in collaboration

Think creatively! Surprise yourself and your students! Provide real-world experience for your students! There are so many ways that class projects can help local communities. This wonderful workshop will provide plenty of practical advice, introduce you to key players on campus that can help you realize your goals, and open your eyes to the possibilities for Community Engagement at CCSU!

Sponsored by the CCSU Faculty Senate Community Engagement Committee and the Center for Teaching and Faculty Development. For information, please contact Reginald Simmons at simmonsred@mail.ccsu.edu.
