October 23 – 29

Online streaming of

In Search of Professor Precarious

- Gerry Potter travels Canada to examine higher education's dirty little secret: The majority of faculty are contingent, just like in the US. Many are part-time; most are poorly paid and poorly treated.
- Watch their compelling stories and think about what can be done to help.

October 29, 9:30 to 11:00 AM

Zoom interview with filmmaker Gerry Potter

- CCSU part-time faculty member Joan Walden (Communication) interviews the filmmaker, who is also a contingent faculty member (a "sessional") in Canada.
- After you've seen the video, think of questions you might like to ask or ideas you might have to help address the predicament facing contingent faculty.
- The interview will be recorded for later viewing, if you are unable to attend.

All week long (October 25 – 29)

- Take time to appreciate the valuable work part-time faculty do in the CSU system.
- Think about what you would be willing to do to help improve the situation of your contingent faculty colleagues.
- Be nice to the part-time faculty.
